HOOP HISTORIANS INVADE DUKE BASKETBALL CAMP

Hoop Historians Ron Newton, Bob Hutchings, Richie Schueler, Joe Klebon, and Friend of the Hoop Historians Kristian Klebon worked this year's Duke Basketball Camp. Hutch has been working the event since 1981. Joe has been working the camp for 20 years. And Joe's son Kristian, who was a camper at Duke for 10 years, is now in his sixth year as a camp instructor.

NCAA SELECTS FUTURE FINAL FOUR SITES

The NCAA announced Final Four sites for 2023 through 2026. Houston will host in 2023, which will be their third Final Four since 2011. Phoenix will host their second Final Four in 2024. San Antonio is back in the mix and will be the 2025 site. And Indianapolis will play host to the 2026 Final Four.

UPDATE: A FEW MINUTES WITH LES LOMBARDI

Now retired as the National Brand Manager for The Rock, Hoop Historian Les Lombardi is feeling great and doing well -- working out three times a week while living in New York. Les has also been doing international consulting in Ireland. 2018 marked the first time Les missed the Final Four in 40 years.

CARDINALS CAPTURE 10,000TH VICTORY

Californian and Hoop Historian Dr. Mike Johnson travelled back to the Midwest to capture a piece of baseball history in June. Johnson, along with high school friends and high school basketball player Herb and Kay Eikerenkoetter saw the Saint Louis Cardinals win their 10,000th regular season victory in a 4-0 win over the Cleveland Indians at Busch Stadium. Although Johnson lives more than 1800 miles away, he has always remained a loyal fan of his beloved Red Birds!

Herb and Kay Eikerenkoetter along with Mike Johnson celebrate the Cardinals' 10,000th regular season victory.
