JIMMY ROGERS
1939-2018

Hoop Historian Jimmy Rogers passed away in Great Britain this month. Rogers was a fixture at the Final Four every year, annually attending the NCAA championship since 1984. Rogers was the founder and operator of the Brixton Topcats, one of London's most respected youth basketball teams. Jimmy played guard on the 1965 British National Championship team.

 In a true grass roots effort, Rogers started the basketball club in 1981 with little money, but major optimism, and turned it into an organization with many success stories – including that of former Topcat player Luol Deng, a 14-year NBA veteran and multiple-time All-Star. For his contributions to the sport, Rogers was elected to the Hoop Historians in 2015. Jimmy's legacy can be best summed up by what was posted on the Brixton Topcats Instagram page:

"Jimmy's work and commitment to his community is unmatched. A father figure, coach, mentor and guide to innumerable people, Jimmy had the purest heart of gold. Jimmy was a man that sacrificed, served, gave in immeasurable ways to his community in and outside of Brixton Topcats where he created a home away from home for hundreds of players".
